

CODE RECKONS

Science to the CORE

CODE RECKONS Code Reckons is a company specializing in information technology research, particularly focused on software performance and modern architectures. They are recognized for their contributions to the C++ programming language and have been involved in standardization efforts since 2014. The company offers training and development services, aiming to help teams become autonomous in software development and improve their programming practices.

Code Reckons

503 rue du Belvédère

ORSAY

<https://codereckons.com/>